Your path to retirement

Your pension pot could be your most valuable asset when you reach retirement. Actively engaging with your plan can help you make the most of your savings and increase the chances of seeing your pension pot grow over time. Regularly reviewing your retirement goals and considering your options in advance can also help you feel more in control — which can help to give you reassurance your retirement plans are on track.

Here's what you can do to make the most of your workplace savings

Review your monthly contributions

Knowing how much you're putting towards your savings and regularly reviewing them can help to make sure they're in line with the income you'll need for the retirement lifestyle you'll want.

Review your investment funds

Which funds you choose to invest your savings in will have a direct impact on the amount you'll have to live on in retirement.

See Page 8

Find out if combining your pots is right for you

Combining isn't for everyone.
But if it's the right thing for you, it can make managing your pension savings much easier.

Your pension contributions

If you haven't taken a look at your pensions savings for a while — the sooner you start, the more you could potentially save for your future.

Knowing what lifestyle you're aiming for in retirement will help you to make more informed decisions. Even if your current finances aren't in the best shape, that doesn't mean they have to stay that way.

Review your contributions regularly

Just like you may do with your other finances — such as bills, insurance premiums or savings accounts — we recommend that you take a look at your pension contributions too. It's good practice, and by doing this, you can keep an eye on what you're saving is in line with your goals as your needs and finances change.

There might be times that prompt you to review your contributions, such as getting a pay increase at work, changing financial circumstances or even new hopes for how you'd like to spend your retirement.

Know if you're saving enough

The amount you contribute to your pension pot will directly determine the type of lifestyle you could have in retirement — that's why it's important to estimate how much money you're likely to need. This will depend on your personal circumstances, any other income you may receive and the way you'd like to live.

Take a look at our myTarget retirement income calculator at aegon.co.uk/targetplan – it helps you to understand what the impact on your future income could be, if you changed your current contributions.

How you could boost your pension pot

If you find you aren't on track, or could afford to save more, there are a few ways you could boost your pension pot.

- By making one-off contributions through your employers payroll, such as if you've had a bonus or unexpected income.
- Increasing your regular monthly contributions.
- If offered by your employer, using part of your salary, known as salary sacrifice.

You can change your contributions by logging into TargetPlan — aegon.co.uk/targetplan, or by using your employers benefits platform.

The value of an investment can fall as well as rise and isn't guaranteed. The final value of your pension pot when you come to take benefits may be less than has been paid in.

Review how your contributions stack up

There are different ways you can do this and it will depend on what your employer has chosen for your workplace scheme.

Let's take an example income

- Assuming an earning of £30,000 gross a year (£2,500 a month) and are a standard UK tax payer.
- This would normally take home £2,035.56 a month.
- Paying income tax £290.20 and National Insurance £174.24.

Using 'employee contribution'

If you paid into your pension plan yourself, known as an 'employee contribution', your employer would deduct your pension contribution from your gross salary, before calculating income tax.

This reduces the income tax you have to pay.

2 Using 'Salary sacrifice'

If you pay into your pension plan using salary sacrifice, part of your salary is given up in return for your employer making a contribution to your pension plan on your behalf.

This reduces the amount of income tax and National Insurance that you have to pay, although this may not be the case for everyone.

	Gross Salary per month	4% pension contribution	Income Tax	National Insurance	Take home pay
1	£2,500.00	£100 (including £20 tax relief from HMRC)	£270.20 (£20 saving)	£174.24	£1,955.36 £20 Tax saving
2	£2,400.00	£100 (paid in by your employer)	£270.20 (£20 saving)	£162.24 (£12 saving)	£1,967.36 £32 Tax saving

The value of the reduction in tax and National Insurance will depend on your individual circumstances, and could change. This example is based on our understanding of current taxation law and HMRC practice, which may change. The figures shown are only examples and are based on the tax and National Insurance (NI) rates for 2023/24.

Income tax rates and bands are currently different in Scotland to the 'rest of the UK'. Please note all examples included above are based on the 'rest of the UK' rates and bands.

Salary sacrifice isn't always suitable for everyone. You should think about other things linked to your level of salary such as statutory maternity, paternity and sick pay, working tax credit/child tax credit or the amount of mortgage you can borrow. If you want more information on the suitability of salary sacrifice, you should speak to a financial adviser.

Review your investment funds

The fund(s) you invest in can make a big difference to the amount you'll have to live on in retirement.

That's why it's so important that you're happy with the investment fund(s) you choose and that you regularly review them, especially as your circumstances change and you get closer to accessing your retirement savings.

We want to make it as easy for you as possible. Your workplace pension scheme offers two options:

Do it for me

Your employer will have chosen a default investment fund or strategy for your pension scheme. When you become a member of your workplace pension, this is where your contributions are automatically invested unless you tell us otherwise.

Help me choose

If you're more confident, you can choose from a wider range of funds, selected by the scheme trustees.

The default investment fund

Your employer, with the consent of the trustees, will have chosen the default investment fund or strategy they believe to be the best fit for the majority of employees. They have a duty to regularly review the investment fund or strategy to make sure it remains appropriate. Responsible investing is an important factor in many of the investment funds now where environment, social and governance elements are considered. If you're happy for your contributions to be invested in the default investment fund you don't have to do anything – you'll automatically be invested in this fund. However, if you want to have a more hands on approach to where your money is invested, you can choose from a wider range of funds selected by the trustees within your online account aegon.co.uk/targetplan and you can find out more at aegon.co.uk/workplace/members/investment-choices/targetplan.html.

The value of investments can fall as well as rise and isn't guaranteed. The final value of your pension pot when you come to take your benefits may be less than has been paid in. If you're not sure if a particular fund, or switching funds is right for you, please speak to a financial adviser. There may be a charge for this.

Combine your pension pots

Whether you've already worked at a few places, or you're just starting out, chances are you'll accumulate a few different pension pots throughout your career.

Why consider combining

- Control bringing your pension pots together will make it easier to view and manage your money, to help you reach your retirement savings goals.
- Fewer charges multiple pension pots could mean you're paying multiple charges. Combining into one pot means one set of charges making it easier to see what charges you're paying and potentially saving money if your charges are higher in plans elsewhere.
- ✓ It's free we won't charge you any transfer or set up fees for transferring your old pensions to us, but you should check if your current provider will charge any exit fee if you transfer.

Your Aegon plan allows you to combine your other pension pots – and we're here to help.

Combining pension pots isn't right in all circumstances, and there are important things to consider. At Aegon, we want to help you decide what's right for you and your future, which is why we've outlined the information you'll need. If you decide combining your pensions pots is for you, we're here to help you take the next step.

Before deciding, here are important things to consider:

- 1 Can I combine my pensions?
- 2 Is it right for me?
- 3 Should I speak to a financial adviser?

1 Can I combine my pensions?

We want to help protect you and your retirement savings and not all pensions can be combined. Your other pensions may have beneficial features, guarantees or additional benefits, and foregoing these may not be in your best interest.

If any of the following criteria apply to you, you must speak with a financial adviser if:

- You have a defined benefit pension.
- You may lose important safeguarded benefits.
- Your pension products with other providers contain certain protection benefits.

Q How can I find this out?

You can normally find information about these benefits on your pension statement. If you need further guidance Aegon Assist are on hand to help.

We're unable to accept transfers in these circumstances without the involvement of a financial adviser. If you'd still like to consider combining your pensions, a financial adviser will help you decide if these benefits are important to you and whether it's in your best interest to combine.

> See page 12 for more on guidance and advice.

2 Is it right for me?

There are important things to check, for each of your pensions, before deciding if you'd like to combine your pension pots.

Explore your options and the impact bringing your pots together might have on your retirement savings. We always recommend you get guidance or advice.

Use this checklist to help you make a decision:

Security with the Aegon Master Trust (AMT)

The AMT has been authorised as a master trust by The Pensions Regulator (TPR). The approval from the TPR is based on an initial and ongoing assessment by them that the AMT meets the authorisation criteria and any other obligations, including relevant legislation and codes of practice. Their objective is to ensure that master trusts continue to be financially viable, are run by fit and proper persons, provide value for money and work in the best interests of members.

Authorised master trusts must have a clear strategy for the future and have fully funded and documented what will happen if events arise to disrupt the scheme. Aegon is confident in the trustees and the strategy for the master trust and, as required by legislation, Aegon has placed sufficient monetary funds for the trustees to resolve any incidents without ever having to increase charges to members.

This gives confidence that in all circumstances the scheme will be resourced to perform in line with the strategy, provide value for money and be run in the best interests of the members.
